MIDWESTERN ARTISTS' EXHIBITION

FEBRUARY 4 to 25, 1940

THE KANSAS CITY ART INSTITUTE
4415 Warwick Boulevard Kansas City, Missouri

FOREWORD

The professional art school, bearing the greatest share of responsibility for the standards of artist education, recognizes always the necessity for close contact with the professional output of the nation. Through contacts with the industrial and commercial communities, thoroughgoing practical training is established for students of applied art. The Midwestern Artists' Exhibition brings before the public and the students of art a broad view of current professional trend and performance.

The Kansas City Art Institute does not make the selection of works of art for exhibition in this Midwestern show, but each year it elects a jury who, according to their individual tastes, choose the work that shall appear. Thus this Institute reaffirms its faith in the jury system. It is this rotating system which allows, from year to year, changes in emphasis which, in the long run, uphold artistic standards and the right of every serious and competent artist in this area to have his work shown.

The Kansas City Art Institute acknowledges with thanks the cooperation of this year's Jury of Selection and Awards: Kenneth Hudson, Director of the Washington University School of Fine Arts, St. Louis, Missouri; Paul Harris, Director of the Des Moines Art Association, Des Moines, Iowa; John F. Helm, Jr., Director of the Kansas State Federation of Art, Kansas State College, Manhattan, Kansas.

A NEW NAME

Starting with the January 1940 issue (Vol. 4, No. 1) the popular art magazine formerly known as ART INSTRUCTION bears the new name

AMERICAN ARTIST

This change represents a real step forward for with it the magazine, while retaining the familiar type of content designed for the art teacher, student and amateur, is expanding by adding material of vital interest to professional artists in many fields.

This name change is in response to a demand for a title less limited in its implication than the old. The rush of subscriptions from professionals indicates that the change meets with their warm approval. There is no change in ownership, management or editorship.

We can still enter a few subscriptions to start with January.

PEPPINO MANGRAVITE

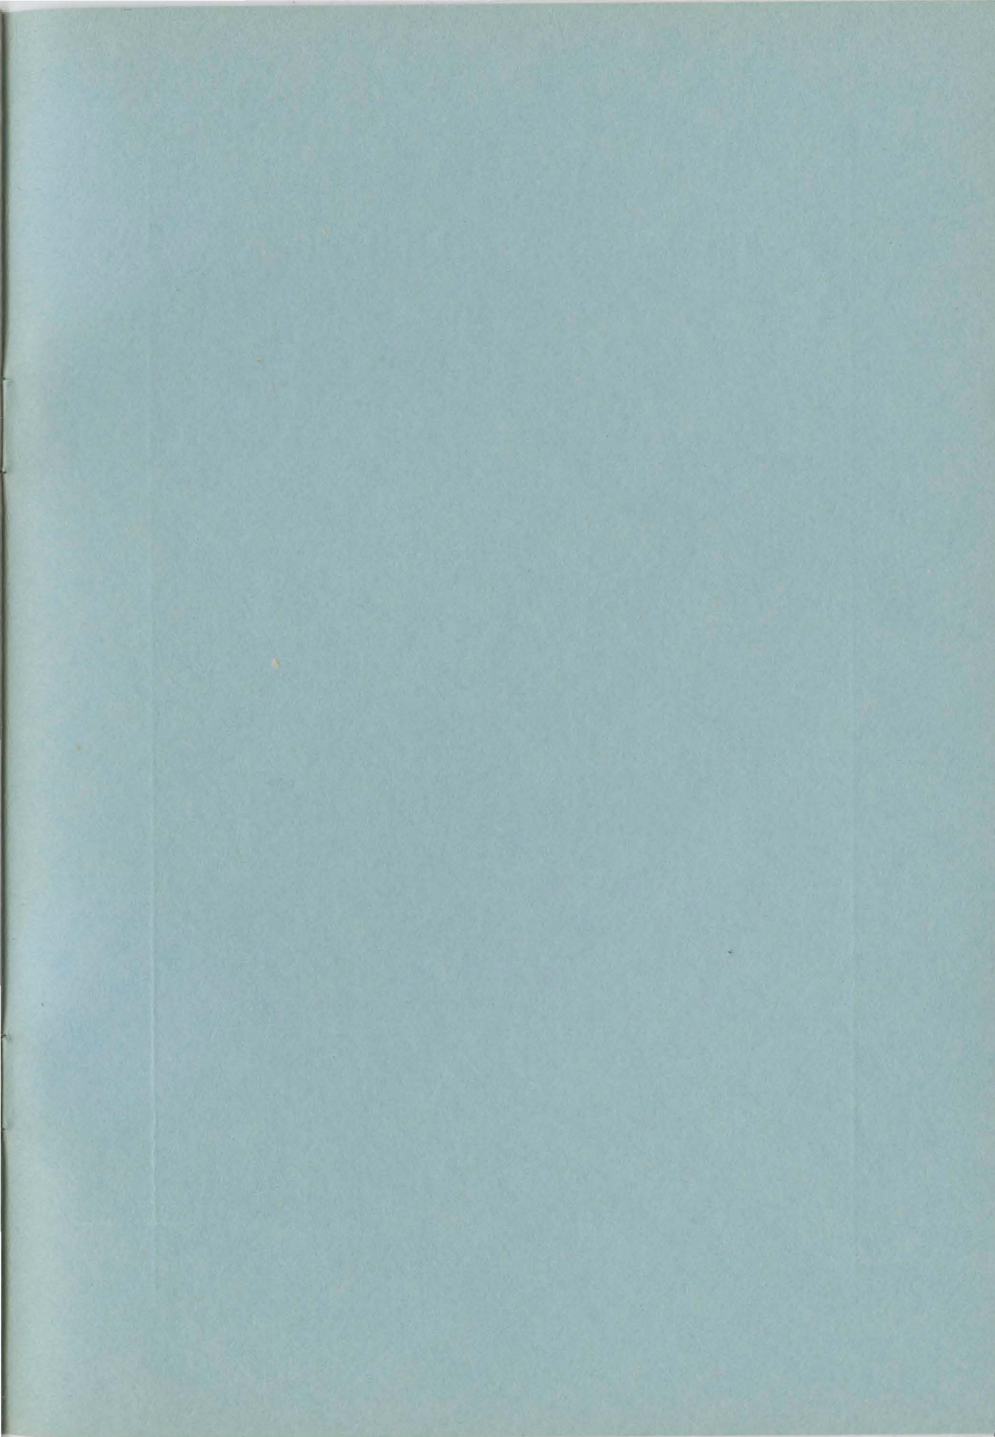

in a recent lecture at Columbia University, said:

"If there ever was a time when the cultural life of sensitive Americans needed to be intelligently guided, that time is now when so many false values tend to confuse and perplex us.

"In the literature of art the most stable and sound guiding post is the "Magazine of Art"—a handsomely illustrated magazine which is edited by keen and serious minds—men of distinction who are not weaklings nor political journalists."

People of critical judgment, who are interested in the arts and who appreciate nice things, universally praise the Magazine of Art. We'd be happy for you to try the Magazine for the next three issues at a special introductory rate of $1.00—a saving of 50c on the single copy rate. If you aren't satisfied, your money will be refunded promptly. MAGAZINE OF ART, published monthly by The American Federation of Arts, Barr Building, Washington.

The Kansas City Art Institute

There is a growing realization that art is now a profession equal in social and economic importance to engineering, law and medicine. Until the last decade the popular feeling regarding artists was that they were geniuses or starved, and often both. But now, day by day, the conviction grows that the artist is to bring new vitality to spiritual life and new faith, new progress to our economic system.

The Kansas City Art Institute recognizes its deepening responsibility toward student and community alike. It gears its work to the highest requirements of special techniques and an elevated spirit. Its practical training is designed to prepare the graduating student to solve the professional problems of today and, because of its alert, professional attitude, it avoids falling into the shortcomings of academic sterility.

Thus the art school is not a place where strange people fritter away time, but an important institution of learning where young men and women prepare themselves for satisfying, fruitful careers of spiritual and practical service to mankind.
